U.S. Military Helmets Through History

A crucial piece of equipment for a soldier in battle is their helmet. The head protectors have continually evolved over America's military history.

The U.S. Army first issued helmets when America entered World War I in 1917. Modeled after the British Army's Brodie helmet, the headgear resembled an upside-down metal bowl with a brim and chinstrap. The steel helmet helped protect the tops of soldiers' heads, but the face and sides of the head were left exposed.

World War II soldiers wore the M1 helmet, which extended farther down the head and had a steel shell and adjustable liner, similar to construction hard hats. Its sturdiness prompted troops to nickname it the "steel pot." The M1 went on to be the standard-issue helmet during the Korean and Vietnam wars.

The invention of the synthetic fiber Kevlar led to the PASGT helmet, short for personal armor system for ground troops. Layers of puncture-resistant Kevlar provided a more lightweight yet effective shield against battlefield hazards for troops during the 1980s and '90s.

Since 2003, U.S. ground forces have worn the ACH, or advanced combat helmet, but officials are continually testing new options to provide the most state-of-the-art military helmet.

A Look Back at Jacks

Cherries in a basket, pigs in the pen, and over the fence ... Those are some of the names you may have heard when playing jacks, a classic children's game with a history in many cultures.

Evidence left behind in caves suggests that prehistoric people played a form of jacks as a way to improve the hand-eye coordination needed for hunting.

In the early days, the ankle bones of sheep served as the game pieces, and the activity came to be known as "knucklebones." Rocks, beans and other small objects were later used, until the invention of six-pronged jacks, usually made of metal or plastic.

The basic concept of modern jacks is simple: A player scatters a set of jacks onto a flat surface, tosses a small rubber ball into the air, then with one hand, tries to scoop up a set number of jacks and catch the ball. In the classic version, the first round is called "onesies," meaning the player scoops up one jack, then "twosies," trying for two at a time, and so on, becoming more difficult. Variations of the game alter the number of ball bounces allowed and the hand motions used. The winner is the one with the most jacks.

Game pieces can be carried in a small pouch or pocket, making jacks a portable pastime that can be played anywhere.

Ways To Drink More Water

During warm weather, it's important to drink plenty of water to prevent dehydration. Increase your intake and stay refreshed by following these tips:

Make it part of your daily routine – Dietitians recommend drinking water at several specific points during the day: after you wake up, with meals, before and after exercise, and when taking medication.

Pick a cup and fill 'er up – An insulated bottle, a colorful tumbler, a mug with a handle ... it doesn't matter what kind of drinkware you use, as long as you like it. Choose a container that is comfortable to use and suits your style.

Sip through a straw – Many people find it easier to drink through a straw, and you'll get more water with every sip. Plus, sipping slowly is better than guzzling, which can cause bloating.

Find your favorite flavor – If you don't like plain water or simply want some variety, enhance the flavor with a few fresh berries, some sliced fruit, a splash of juice, or sprigs of fresh herbs such as spearmint.

Adjust the temp – Whether you like it served over ice or lukewarm, water is hydrating no matter its temperature. Let food servers know your preference so you're sure to drink water at mealtimes.

Brain Bender: What a Catch!

Four buddies—Calvin, Gary, Nate and Stan—went fishing. They each caught a different kind of fish: bass, walleye, perch and trout. From the clues below, can you determine the first and last names of each fisherman, what kind of fish he caught, and how much the fish weighed (3, 6, 8 or 10 pounds)?

1. Stan's last name isn't Hall.
2. Calvin, whose last name isn't Reynolds, didn't catch the smallest fish.
3. The man who caught the 8-pound fish didn't catch the walleye.
4. Mr. White didn't catch the 6-pound trout.
5. Nate caught the perch.
6. The fish were caught in the following order, from smallest to largest: Mr. Hall, Gary Benson, bass, and Calvin.

Bananas for Bananas

A staple for breakfast meals and the perfect on-the-go snack, bananas are one of the world's most consumed fruits.

Bananas were cultivated thousands of years ago in Southeast Asia and reached the New World in the 16th century. When first imported to the U.S. in the 1800s, the banana was considered an exotic food and eaten with a knife and fork.

Although bananas are considered fruits, botanically they are berries. They grow upside down on giant herb plants, not trees, in tropical climates. Their familiar curved shape is the result of growing against gravity toward the sunlight. An individual banana is called a finger, and a bunch is called a hand.

Worldwide, there are over 1,000 varieties of bananas, but the one most commonly found in stores and eaten fresh is the bright yellow Cavendish, due to its sweet taste and creamy texture. Bananas are rich in potassium, which can help lower blood pressure. The mineral also improves muscle function and boosts energy, and that's why many athletes eat a banana during competition and after workouts.

In the U.S., bananas are grown in Hawaii and Florida, but most of the nation's supply comes from Central and South America.

Hog Wild for Harleys

For more than a century, Harley-Davidson motorcycles have been synonymous with adventure and cruising on the open road.

In 1901, the wheels began turning for a young Milwaukee man named William S. Harley, who had the idea for a motorized bicycle. He drew a blueprint of a small engine to fit on a bike, and over the next two years, he and childhood friend Arthur Davidson worked on the design. Davidson's two brothers soon joined the team.

They built the first motorcycles in a backyard shed. In 1905, their first dealership opened in Chicago. As business grew, the company hired more employees and built a factory in Milwaukee. Police departments began ordering Harleys for their officers, and the U.S. military bought thousands of bikes during both world wars, where troops used them to deliver messages between units.

After World War II, legions of leisure riders took to the roads, cementing the popular brand as an American icon. The company's bar and shield logo in orange, black and white is one of the most recognizable emblems in the world.

Harley-Davidson motorcycles are sometimes called "hogs," a nickname that began in the 1920s, when one of the company's winning racing teams carried their mascot, a pig, on their victory laps

'Jaws' Turns 45

Considered to be the first summer blockbuster, the thriller "Jaws" opened in theaters on June 20, 1975. Dive into these fin-tastic facts about the film.

- "Jaws" was based on the novel of the same name by Peter Benchley, who also co-wrote the screenplay. He originally titled the book "Silence in the Deep."
- Three mechanical sharks were built to portray the great white beast that terrorizes a seaside town.
- To add suspense, the shark isn't seen until nearly an hour and a half into the film. In total, it only has four minutes of screen time.
- The memorable line "You're going to need a bigger boat" was ad-libbed by actor Roy Scheider, who played the town police chief, Martin Brody.
- The fishing boat used to track the shark is named the Orca. In real life, orcas are the only natural predators of great white sharks.
- John Williams composed the famously foreboding two-note "Jaws" theme, winning the Academy Award for best original score.
- The first movie to make over $100 million at the box office, "Jaws" was the highest-grossing film of all time until 1977's "Star Wars."
